

Dr. Jimmie N. Smith, vice-chancellor for Student Affairs, addressed high school students with LSUS Tuesday night. The program, "Come Grow With Us" was open to the public.

Dylan Thomas

Program set here

Welsh poet Dylan Thomas will be the subject of a special program Saturday (Nov. 13) at LSUS, John Powell, LSUS director of Conferences and Institutes said.

Entitled "An Afternoon with Dylan Thomas," it will begin at 4 p.m. in the LSUS Science Lecture Auditorium (SLA) and is open to the public.

THE PROGRAM is being cosponsored by the Caddo Council of Teachers of English and will include selected readings from Thomas' play "Under Milkwood," as well as from his poems and letters, Powell said.

Shreveport personalities taking part in the production include actor Robert Lightsey, actress Ruth Page, and Joy Burda, a native of Wales. The program was organized by Marilyn Gibson-Baldwin, LSUS assistant professor in English, and is being produced by Terry Hansen, also a Shreveport actor.

The program will follow a 3:30 p.m. meeting of the Caddo Council of Teachers of English, to which the public is invited, and will include an intermission during which refreshments will be served, Powell said.

SGA Campus Report cancelled temporarily

The SGA Newsletter, "Campus Report," will be discontinued for the rest of the semester, according to Mark Stephens, director of the Public Information Office. The PIO office will perform an evaluation of the report to seek possible improvements for next semester.

CHANCELLOR DONALD E. Shipp, Stephens and Alumnus Randy Beach will discuss the LSUS University Center during the SGA Campuswide discussion Wednesday in the Snack Bar, according to Shirley Jacques, SGA secretary.

In other business George Henderson was appointed SGA treasurer during Friday's SGA meeting.

HENDERSON, A sophomore business major, was approved to the post of treasurer by a senate vote of 14-2-0.

Resolution 77-16 was passed by unanimous consent of the senate and gave Nov. 15 and 16 as the dates for voting on an amendment to the constitution, "to appoint new senators in the event that vacancies occur, with Senate approval."

'Come Grow With Us' acquaints prospective students with LSUS

by CARLA HARPER

"Come Grow With Us," a two-hour program designed to acquaint prospective students with LSUS, was held Tuesday night in the Science Lecture Auditorium.

Dr. Jimmie N. Smith, vice-chancellor for student affairs, presided at the program which was open to the public. "This program offered everybody—high school students and adults alike—a chance to meet the deans of our five colleges and to discuss with them the facilities, curricula and activities of the colleges," said Dr. Smith. He introduced Chancellor Donald E. Shipp who presented the welcoming address.

THE PROGRAM included a multimedia presentation which consisted of slides, music and spoken words by three faculty members—Dr. Robert C. Leitz, Dr. Ann M. McLaurin and Ms. Chyrl Savoy. Dr. Leitz narrated the first film and the remaining films were accompanied by such popular songs as "Someone's Knocking at the Door." These films depicted views of student life on and off campus.

The next item on the agenda was the introduction of administrators which consisted of Dr. Gary Brashier, Vice-Chancellor for Academic Affairs; Dr. Don Wilcox, college of Business Administration; Dr. Bobby Tabarlet, college of Education; Dr. Vincent Marsala, college of General Studies; Dr. Mary Mvri-3, college of Liberal Arts and Dr. Thomas Moss, college of Science.

PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS and their parents were given time to browse through the various academic departments and were then allowed time for informal discussions with the five deans and faculty and staff members at a reception held in the LSUS Library. Discussion subjects included financial aid, student activities programs, non-credit courses offered at LSUS and the university's plans for the future.

"We were delighted with the turnout, almost 300 people—students and parents. It seemed that we had more students this year than last. I'd like to thank everybody who had a part in the program, stated Dr. Smith. "And I would especially like to thank the faculty and staff for putting on the program."

Liberal Arts Colloquium planned; speakers discuss educational values

The final program in the fall series of the Liberal Arts Colloquium will be held Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. in the LSUS Snack Bar according to Don Alexander, assistant professor of Fine Arts and Chairman of the Liberal Arts Program and Planning Committee.

The topic for the evening's discussion will be the impact of educational values outside the university community. Alexander said that the participants will be concerned with the viability of ethical values in politics, medicine, law, and other professions, as well as in the daily lives of college graduates.

PAUL LYNCH, Assistant United States attorney, will be the first speaker on the panel. A graduate of the Southern University School of Law, Lynch was a member of the Judge Advocate's staff during his tour of duty with the United States Army.

David Gorsolowsky, a 1976 honor graduate of LSUS and now a student at the LSUS Medical School will also serve on the panel. Gorsolowsky is past LSUS Alpha Sigma Upsilon (Honor Society) President and a member of the Louisiana Delta Colony of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

LSUS senior English and pre-law major Rebecca Hudsmith is also a scheduled speaker.

Editor of the LSUS Literary Magazine, Spectra, she is also President of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority and Honor Society President.

Hudsmith is a member of the Young Democrats and participates in the Debate Club. She was voted first runner up in the Miss LSUS contest.

DISCUSSION FROM the floor will follow the presentations of the three panelists. Alexander noted that all students, faculty, and interested members of the public are invited to attend.

Alexander announced that the Program and Planning Committee has made tentative plans for the Spring Colloquium which will feature an interdisciplinary discussion of the Liberal Arts and Psychology. Further details will be announced at a later date.

SAB Fall Dance rated 'huge success'; Disney's 'Alice In Wonderland' re-released

The Student Activities Board (SAB) Fall Dance held recently at the Progressive Men's Club was a "huge success" according to Jim Harvey, SAB president.

About 200 people attended the dance, Harvey said. "The Band was excellent and the facilities were better than expected. We hope to use it again in the future. He added that the fraternities which manned the concessions were a "great help." The next dance is scheduled for Feb. 12.

ANOTHER SAB activity will be the presentation of Walt Disney's "Alice in Wonderland" Nov. 19 in the Science Lecture Auditorium. The picture which is being re-released after 23 years, is true to Lewis Carroll's satire on education, politics, literature and Victorian life in general.

The cartoon adventure runs 1 hour 15 minutes and will feature the figures of the Mad Hatter, Cheshire Cat and Queen of Hearts.

DENISE PRUDHOMME, freshman, speech and hearing major, has recently been appointed to the SAB Program Council and Freddie Tucker has been appointed film projectionist. Harvey said, "Prudhomme is serving as chairman of the Dance Committee.

He also announced all eight committee chairman positions will be declared vacant effective Dec. 6. Any student wishing to serve in one of the chairman slots is urged to call the SAB office at ext. 393, 394, or come by Bronson Hall, room 126 to arrange for an interview.

SAB activities the remainder of the fall semester include five movies and a concert.

Find your purpose, SGA

The Student Government Association (SGA) has appropriated $650 for the purchase of a sound system to be installed in the Snack Bar. What kind of sound system? Who knows? Certainly not the SGA.

Vice President Pat Dowling says that the system, now up for bids, will consist of a PA system, tape player and AM $\frac{1}{2}$ FM radio. The main purpose of the unit, according to Dowling, is to provide musical entertainment for students in the Snack Bar.

However, President Richard Dancy says that the system does not include a tape player.

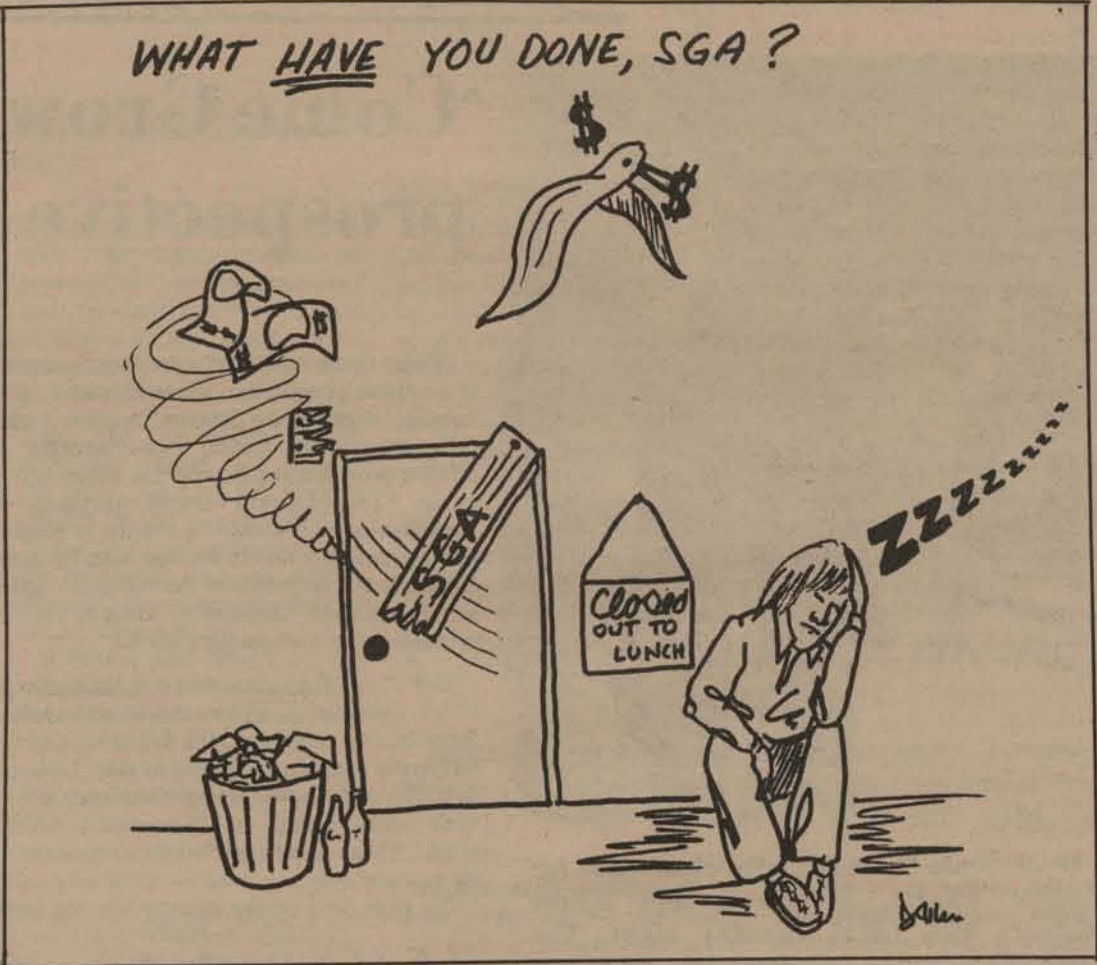

Disorganization in the SGA has left LSUS students in quite a dilemma. Dancy continuously says that he wants to help the students. Does he? Where is our president when we need him? Wherever he is, he is certainly never behind his desk in the SGA office.

And what has the Organization done this semester besides supplying us with a creative fair booth? Why have there been three executive resignations? What happened to the candidate forum scheduled before the city election? Why has the SGA newsletter, "Campus Report" been cancelled? Where are seat cushions for the SLA that we were promised last semester? Where are the requirement changes for the Mr. and Miss LSUS election. And the list goes on and on.

It has been rumored that since Dancy is never at school, in class or at his post, that getting rid of him seems to be the best solution. Of course there are several eligible politicians in the Senate who are eyeing the job and think that it would be quite a position to hold. But what it all comes to is this — Dancy cannot do all this work alone. The Senate has done absolutely nothing. And nothing will be accomplished as long as the executive branch of our student government sits back and refuses to demand work and cooperation from the Senate.

We still don't know what to think about the new tape system that is being put in the Snack Bar and we probably won't know until we see it. But that is the way the SGA works. The organization thrives on praise but they certainly aren't going to receive it when they sit back and stagnate.

SGA should take criticism; don't react defensively

by TIM HARDY

After all the praise the Student Government received from their excellent State Fair Booth, the SGA should be able to receive a suggestion and some criticism without being too sensitive and reacting defensively as the SGA has in the past.

The semester is almost over and the familiar catchphrases can be heard explaining the lack of meaningful programs by the SGA: "The senate doesn't know what to do," "Nobody in the senate wants to work," "Only four or five senators do all the work."

Part of the problem lies in the fact that there is no one to place the responsibility for senate work. It is difficult for criticism to have any impact when one can only blame the senate as a whole. Each one in the senate feels it is another's fault. However, one can get results from the president if he is slacking, by criticizing him. He knows students can understand his responsibility and can see if he acts or not.

Such a situation needs to be arranged for the individual senate members. This can be done by (heaven forbid, not again) a constitutional change in the organization of the senate. Instead of having 30 people running for at-large positions or college positions, with everybody getting elected, make the contenders file for particular committee assignments dealing with pre-assigned topics.

For example; John Doe runs for a senate seat on the Academic and Social Freedoms Committee. He already knows the responsibilities he will be faced with, and can't complain, "I didn't want to be assigned to this committee." When he doesn't do his job he can be openly criticized and conversely can be commended if he does his job well.

The students involved can then run for offices dealing with their field of interest and be held accountable for their posts, much like a cabinet member. Gone, hopefully will be the student representing his or her college who only shows (sometimes) up for the Friday senate meeting to vote on programs put forth by the "Four or five senators who work", programs doomed to failure by a lack of participation.

Alongside this change, the senate should be reduced in number, to increase competition for each office, resulting in a more manageable body for dealing with LSUS problems.

Maybe with this organization the university will see some real progress desperately needed. Think about it SGA leaders.

After months of campaigning Carter becomes President

The election is finally over. Almost two years of long, hard, and rigorous campaigning have been completed for another few years. The people from all over America have spoken.

We have a new President of the United States in Jimmy Carter, the small town boy who made it big. It was quite an election.

It began for Carter some twenty-two months ago when he announced his candidacy for President. That is when people around the nation began to ask the now famous question: "Jimmy who?" Well, no one can ask that question now. Mr. Carter ran away from the field as he won enough primaries to win a first ballot nomination at the convention.

FOR GERALD Ford, despite a first-ballot nomination, his road through the primaries was rocky as he tried to fight off popular challenger, Ronald Reagan. Reagan defeated Ford in many primaries and let at one point in delegates to the convention. but Ford overcame this lead and became the Republican nominee. At the end of the convention, Carter had a huge 16-18 point lead in the polls. It looked like Carter was a cinch for the White House.

But things started to happen. Ford began actively campaigning and the lead began to shrink. Jimmy Carter gave an interview to Playboy magazine and the lead shrank some more. Carter's lead was now below 10 points in the polls.

The two candidates met in three debates which many through would decide the election. The debates (really just glorified press conferences) did not prove that much. The two candidates headed out on a final swing that saw them cover hundreds of thousands of miles in just 10 days. The polls taken on election eve showed that this election was too close to call.

CARTER EMERGED with a three-point victory in the regular vote and 297 electoral votes. This margin was large enough to give him the Presidency. It was a very exciting election. For many of us, it was our first chance to help choose this country's highest official. While everyone was not happy with the election of Mr. Carter, he is the choice of the majority and we must live with that choice. Who knows, he may surprise us and be quite a President.

Graduate Record Exams

Costs remain level

Despite inflation, costs to college students using the various services offered by the Graduate Record Examinations Board have remained level and in some areas decreased, according to Educational Testing Service (ETS), which administers the programs for the Board.

For the third consecutive year prices for the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE) national administrations, offered nationwide six times per year, will be held at $10.50 each for the Aptitude Test and one of the 19 Advanced Tests.

IN ADDITION, costs for three other services offered by the GRE Board have been reduced, largely due to increased use:

— The per-test cost of the GRE Local Administrations has been reduced from $8.00 to $5.50. Local administrations are used only by the school offering the exam for its enrolled graduate students, and the fee is paid by the school.

— The price of the four-volume Graduate Programs and Admissions Manual for the 1976-77 school year will be cut from $3.50 to $3.00 per volume.

— The price for the sample aptitude test has been reduced to $1.00 from last year's cost of $1.25.

Additionally, in order to make the GRE available to as broad a range of students as possible, the GRE Board has enlarged eligibility requirements for the GRE Fee Waiver Program. Students now eligible for fee waivers are those who are currently enrolled as seniors in college, are receiving financial aid, and have an estimated parental contribution of $200 per year or less. The Fee Waiver also now applies to national and other test administrations.

AS IN the past, the fee waiver will be used only to defray the cost of the test. It will not be used to offset the costs of additional or supplemental fees such as the walk-in fee or the Special Administration surcharge.

The four-volume Graduate Programs and Admissions Manual lists pertinent information about graduate institutions throughout the country as well as a sample aptitude test. The four volumes of the manual are divided by study areas: Volume A — Biological Sciences, Health Sciences and related fields; Volume B — Arts and Humanities; Volume C — Physical Sciences, Mathematics and Engineering; Volume D — Social Sciences and Education.

ETS administers the GRE program for the 17-member GRE Board, which was formed in affiliation with the Council of Graduate Schools and Association of Graduate Schools.

Trike recalled

The first annual LSUS Tricycle Race was held last Friday in the mall and the Almagest team was declared the winners.

In the first heat, teams representing the Intramurals Department, Phi Delta Theta, Beta Chi and Delta Sigma Phi participated. The IM team, consisting of Roy Murry and Valerie Mueller won but were penalized and Phi Delta Theta was declared the winner of the first heat.

AS THE crowd became a little more involved, the second heat was on. On the first run-down the SGA team of Terri Dunn and Dennis Frank was eliminated because Franks pushed too hard and Dunn lost control. Zeta Tau Alpha finished first with 38.8 seconds. The SAB and Psychology Dept. were also in the competition.

The Almagest was declared the winner of the third heat when Denise (Grease) Allen and Jim (Sunshine) Milligan finished far in front of their nearest competitors, who were five seconds behind them. On the first stretch, the teams were running neck to neck, but on the turnaround, the Almagest moved into an early lead for the winning time of 37 seconds. Other teams entered in this heat were the Communications Department, the Accounting Club and Alpha Phi.

In the fourth, and slowest race of the afternoon, the winning team was composed of Joe Simon and Karen Irvin, representing Student Activities. Their time was 41.6 and they were followed by Student Aid, the PIO and Delta Delta Delta.

The four final teams lined up at the starting line and the official blew the whistle. They were off and pushing. Bagatelle held the winning time, coming in with 37.2 seconds, and followed by DOM in second with 42.7 seconds. The Special Education Dept. and Psychology Club finished behind them.

The four teams with winning times were then selected and lined up for the championship race.

THE CROWD and participants were moving in closer as the time grew near. However, the eagerness was a little too evident. As the official began the race, Judy Norris and Ken Jones of the SAB jumped the gun, causing ZTA and Bagatelle to run also. The Almagest team held their ground, however, and watched as their competitors widened the distance between them. Despite the efforts of the officials and crowd to slow them, the teams were halfway down the strip before they were halted. A two minute rest period was allowed for them to catch their breath.

Finally everybody was rested and the final race began. As the teams began running Bagatelle was out in front, followed by the other teams, who appeared to be running together. The turnaround made the difference, however and Allen and Milligan held on to their lead, finishing with a record time of 32.8 seconds.

THE SAB team of Norris and Jones finished second with 36 seconds, followed by Steve Branton and Lisa Maples of the Bagatelle, in 37.8 seconds and ZTA teamsters Lisa Laborde and Keith Hartstein brought up the rear with 39.4 seconds.

Trophies were presented to the Almagest winners by Dr. Jimmie Smith, vice-chancellor Student Affairs.

Scheduling changes made, for Business classes

A major change in the scheduling of evening classes for the College of Business Administration at LSUS was announced recently by Dr. Don C. Wilcox, dean of the college.

Starting with the spring semester of 1977, the LSUS College of Business Administration will offer some classes that meet twice a week, rather than once, and for one hour and 15 minutes instead of three hours.

"WE ARE making this change," Dr. Wilcox said, "to bring the college more in line with what other universities are doing, and—at the same time—to adjust our program to the needs of the community. These needs have been reflected in the requests made by our students, and the comments made by the local business community."

Dr. Wilcox said the immediate benefit to evening students is that the schedule change will allow them to earn nine credit hours per semester while attending classes only two nights a week, whereas in the past students have had to attend classes three nights a week to earn the same number of hours.

"IN TURN, the college will be able to offer a more viable night program—one with a wider range of subjects, especially at the advanced level—that will allow students to pursue a degree program with fewer class conflicts," he said.

"Also, we have found that from a learning standpoint short classes are better than long classes," he said.

Dr. Wilcox said the schedule change, approved by the LSUS Council of Academic Deans, will not require additional faculty staffing and will not result in a tuition fee increase.

IN THE past, all evening classes for the College of Business Administration have been scheduled once a week, usually from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Under the new schedule, some of the classes will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays while others will continue to meet for three-hour sessions on either Tuesday or Thursdays.

Most of the Monday-Wednesday class times will be

5:30-6:45 p.m., 6:50-8:05 p.m., or 8:10-9:25 p.m. However, one particular Monday-Wednesday class, Office Administration 155 (Shorthand), will meet 5:30-7:45 p.m. so that the predominantly female enrollment can get home earlier, Dr. Wilcox said.

THE COLLEGE of Business Administration evening classes, which meet in the university's Library Building, lead to a bachelor of science degree in such majors as marketing, management, finance & economics, accounting, and health care facilities administration.

The classes are numbered to indicate their class level with the 400 series indicating the junior and senior level, 300 the junior level, 200 the sophomore, and 100 the freshman.

Dean Wilcox said the new Monday-Wednesday schedule, which begins on Jan. 17, will be as follows:

From 5:30 p.m. to 6:45 p.m.—Finance 420, Bank Administration; Business Administration 322, Business Law; Economics 350, the Economics of Population and Environment; Marketing 301, Principles of Marketing; Management and Administration 321, Human Relations in Business; and Business Administration 250, Electronic Computers in Business Administration.

From 5:30 p.m. to 7:45 p.m.—Office Administration 155, Shorthand.

From 6:50 p.m. to 8:05 p.m.—Accounting 305, Intermediate Accounting; Finance 326, Principles of Life and Health Insurance; Economics 202, Economic Principles and Problems; Business Administration 324, Real Estate Law; Economics 310, Money, Banking and Monetary Policy; Business Administration 282, Introduction to Business Statistics; and Marketing 310, Consumer Analysis and Behavior.

FROM 8:10 p.m. to 9:25

p.m.—Economics 201, Principles of Economics; Finance 301, Basic Business Finance; Management and Administration 480, Administrative Policy; and Marketing 312, Marketing Communication: Selling and Advertising.

Other three-hour classes will continue to meet on either Tuesdays or Thursdays from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., Dean Wilcox said.

For the spring semester, Tuesday night offerings will be: Accounting 206, Introductory Managerial Accounting; Accounting 205, Introductory Financial Accounting; Accounting 330, Cost Accounting; Health Administration 322, The Health Care Facility and the Community; Business Administration 210, Business Communication; and Marketing 320, Sales Management.

THURSDAY NIGHT offerings for the spring semester will be: Accounting 206, Introductory Managerial Accounting; Accounting 306, Intermediate Accounting; Finance 342, Real Estate Finance and Evaluation; Management and Administration 430, Operations and Administration Planning and Control; Health Administration 424, Hospital Business Management; Accounting 106, Applied Accounting; and Business Administration 105, Introduction to Business.

Students should understand apartment leases, deposits

Most college students either live at home or in an apartment. If the student chooses to live in an apartment community there are certain things that he should understand about leases and deposits.

When a person leases an apartment there are several forms that he is required to fill out and sign. Usually he fills out an application to lease and if he is accepted he then is asked to sign a lease and other assorted paperwork.

READ THE lease, do not assume that it says anything. Check the term of the lease, the lease dates, any clauses regarding renewals, when the rent is due, and who it is payable to. See that any deposits that have been paid are listed on the lease and note what they cover.

Check to see what conditions the deposit will be refunded under. These usually include: full term of the lease has expired, resident has given thirty days notice before vacating, and that the apartment be left in acceptable condition. Discuss the terms and conditions of the lease with the management and be sure to get a copy of anything signed.

CHECK WITH the management to see that all locks on the apartment were changed since the last resident. Be sure that everything is in writing—verbal agreements don't count. Find out what the management's policies are regarding late rent charges and NSF check charges. Also find out what the policies are in regard to security and maintenance problems. Find out what the procedure is when the office is closed. Talk to the managers of the apartments and find out as much as possible about the residential community in which you have chosen to live.

Apartment living is a convenience but misunderstandings concerning apartment living can make it a disappointment. Make sure that it is understood what the apartments are responsible for and what the resident is responsible for.

MD Dance Marathon plans being formulated for 1977

by CARLA HARPER

Plans are now being formulated for the second annual Muscular Dystrophy (MD) Dance Marathon to be sponsored by Phi Delta Theta fraternity next year, according to Pat Dowling, co-chairman of the event.

A meeting for all area clubs and organizations wishing to participate in the marathon will be November 19 at 1 p.m. in Bronson Hall, room 132. Two representatives of the Muscular Dystrophy Association will also attend the meeting.

Several Delta Sigma Phi fraternity members will help with the event, although the fraternity as a group will not sponsor it. Alpha Phi sorority will also participate. These two groups together raised $2,200 at the first marathon.

A trophy will be presented to the winners. Delta Sigma Phi won this year's marathon and will receive their trophy at Sunday's banquet.

"It was a big success this year and it should prove to be a much bigger success next year. The groundwork's already been laid, it should be a lot easier this time," said Dowling.

Tim Whitfield, also co-chairman of the upcoming marathon, stated, "I am a patient of MD and I hate to see little kids going through a life like this. We need to raise the money because these kids really need it bad." SAB President Jim Harvey added, "SAB will help in any way we can."

For further information contact Pat Dowling in the SGA office.

Shout at the devil

Advertisements for "Shout at the Devil" say, "Filmed with all the spectacle of 'King Solomon's Mines', the drama of 'African Queen', the passion of 'Snows of Kilimanjaro' and the majesty of 'Lawrence of Arabia'. It is a spectacular adventure you will always remember and a beautiful love story you will never forget."

Bah humbug!

Director Peter Hunt and producer Micheal Klinger take two well-known and capable actors, Lee Marvin and Roger Moore, a tropical setting, the lush jungles and rivers of Zanzibar, Africa, a unique plot, the smuggling of ivory out of German held territory and beautiful cinematography and combine them into a two and a half hour original but boring movie.

The action centers around an ivory hunter and smuggler with an insatiable thirst for gin, Lee Marvin, and an English gentleman, Roger Moore, who team up to smuggle ivory.

After a few scraps with the Colonel of the German territory, which include the heroes being rammed by a German destroyer, having some comrades hung and the murder of Moore's baby girl, the smugglers decide to get revenge.

The movie might have had potential had the director and producer developed the love story, cut the movie by a half hour and not mixed the Laurel and Hardy antics with the occasional deaths.

Although "Shout at the Devil" is not Oscar material it is entertaining and not an altogether bad way to spend a few hours.

Spindletop Tournament

Debate Team travels

by CARLA HARPER

The LSUS Debate Team traveled to Lamar University in Beaumont, Texas recently for the Spindletop Invitational Forensic Tournament.

The three teams, consisting of Rebecca Hudsmith and Donald Wright, Brian Lee and Steve Avar, Rhett Myers and Don Hutchinson, all entered junior division. Hudsmith and Wright advanced to the quarterfinals and were defeated by Southwest Texas State University, the same team that gave them their only preliminary rounds loss. SWTSU advanced to the final round.

LEE AND Avar compiled a 4-2 record and Myers and Hutchinson finished with a 3-3 record. The combined record of 12-6 was the third best showing by a college or university at the tournament.

Wright placed first in extemporaneous speaking and missed finishing in the top five speakers of the tournament by three points. Hudsmith captured third place in extemporaneous.

THE NEXT event will be the Red River Forensic Classic tournament sponsored by LSUS on Nov. 19 and 20. The individual events will include oral interpretation of poetry, dramatic interpretation, persuasive speaking and extemporaneous speaking as well as two divisions of debate: novice and advanced. At least 20 schools from Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas will compete.

A sweepstakes trophy will be awarded to first, second and third place teams in each division of debate and in each category of individual events. Quarter finalist plaques will be presented in each division of debate and the top five speakers in each division will be awarded trophies.

"I WAS pleased with the results from the Beaumont trip. Donald and Rebecca performed extremely well both in individual events and debate. The overall record of the team was particularly gratifying because it represents continued improvement by all our debaters and this tournament provided the hardest competition we have faced yet this year," said Dr. Frank Lower, debate coach.

Donuts defeat faculty Revenge

The Intramural Flag Football championship was decided recently when the Donuts, winners of the Tuesday league defeated Revenge, winners of the Wednesday league, 12-6.

In the first play, the Donuts held Revenge and gained possession of the ball. However, after Revenge regained possession, Stuart Mills took a Richard Flicker pass of 30 yards for the first TD of the game. Revenge moved ahead, 6-0. There were several interceptions in the first half, but no more scores ensued.

EARLY IN the second half, David Welsh took a Mike Haney pass to set up a Donut TD. Haney carried the ball to the one yard line on the next play and immediately afterwards carried the ball over the goal line for the tying TD.

The Donut defense managed to hold the faculty, who had to punt. McCrocklin then caught a Haney pass for a first down in midfield. Mills then intercepted a Haney pass. Revenge had position of the ball and John Tabor took a Flicker pass for short yardage. The faculty team moved down the field to an apparent touchdown, but in the final five minutes of play, McCrocklin intercepted a Flicker pass.

WITH THE Donuts in possession of the ball, a drive is set up as Haney runs for the first down. He ran again for a penetration, but due to a penalty the play was recalled. Paul King then took the ball 10 yards on a Haney pass. This set the Donuts up for the winning touchdown, scored by McCrocklin on a Haney pass.

Revenge, determined to score, now possessed the ball. Tabor took a Flicker pass and ran for about 15 yards. Hopes of a victory went down the drain as Alan Franks intercepted a Flicker pass. The Donuts, assured of a victory, held the ball for one play as the final whistle blew.

Huddleston claims men's singles

The LSUS Men's tennis tournament was held last Saturday on a pleasant afternoon. A record was broken at LSUS in that for the first time there are no defaults.

Play progressed smoothly during the initial play and several highlights were noticed. During the quarterfinals, 4th seeded Gary Scroggins narrowly defeated Mark Germany, an upcoming tennis potential, 6-4, 7-6. Third seeded Joe Patrick overcame Russell Youngman 6-0, 6-2, while 1st and 2nd seeded players Johnel Huddleston and D. L. Butler downed their competition with little difficulty.

BUTLER DEFEATED Robin Curry 6-4, 6-0 while Huddleston beat southpaw Steve Balfe 6-1, 6-3.

The semifinals were challenging and most interesting when the top four seeds played each other in the early afternoon. Joe Patrick nearly defeated Johnel Huddleston, who lost the first set. However, a comeback upped his standing and he won the final set 6-4, 6-2 to maintain his position. Gary Scroggins caused Butler some anxious moments as Butler narrowly defeated Scroggins 6-4, 6-1.

IN THE finals, Butler and Huddleston agreeded to a playoff shortly after the semifinals and the match proved to be close. Huddleston won the first set, 6-4, but was downed 5-3 in the second set. In the third set, Huddleston came back to win 7-5 retained the championship title.

All-Star teams chosen

The Men's and Women's All-Stars have been finalized. The final roster of the members and their teams is as follows.

Faculty suffers first loss

by TIM HARDY

Fast action characterized the volleyball games Thursday, despite one team not having their 5-man quota.

In the men's league, the faculty suffered their first loss, by forfeit, despite two winning scores against Delta Sigma Phi, 15-12 and 15-2. Taking two out three games constitutes one win. The faculty played with three, forfeiting the game for not having the required five-man team minimum Faculty record is 4-1, Delta Sig stands 2-3.

THE FAST scoring action was led by net plays by Dr. Basil Catsikis and Dr. F. Scott Kennedy. Despite outstanding defense by Delta Sig, the Faculty toppled the fraternity.

In other men's league action, the Misfits raised their game record to 4-1, tying the Faculty team. KA lost to the Misfits and left their record at 0-5.

The corecreational games presented some lively competition as Zeta Tau Alpha and Delta Delta Delta battled through three games before the tri-Delts emerged the winner.

THE FIRST game played to 18-16, going beyond the customary win score of 15, since neither was able to gain a two point margin until the last tri-Delta offense. The second game, which ZTA won, was an easy victory 15-4, as tri-Delta's concentration lapsed. They recovered in the final game leading, except for one turn by ZTA, to win 15-13.

Final league action took place yesterday between the Misfits and Faculty for the men's championship.
